

CA647 Assignment Marking Rubric (guideline only)

40-49:

- partially working exploit,
- address space layout randomisation disabled,
- significant changes to code base,
- approach documented and referenced,
- evidence of code review,
- path to full solution described,
- exploit and payload present and commented.

50-59 adds the following:

- fully working exploit,
- address space layout randomisation enabled,
- moderate changes to code base.

60-69 adds the following:

- minimal changes to code base,
- evidence of comprehensive code review,
- analysis of alternative exploit approaches and their merits and demerits.

70-79 adds the following:

- no changes to code base,
- evidence of research (including references).

80-100 adds the following:

- originality demonstrated (e.g. tells lecturer something he didn't know),
- exploit overcomes significant technical challenge.